

Dear Technician Conference Delegate

The live timetable for the ASE Online Technicians Conference July 21 is now available by clicking on the Sched link below. For those of you who are unfamiliar with Sched, it is an online timetabling tool which has the versatility for you to view all sessions and create your own personal agenda by filtering and planning your particular sessions.

SCHED: <https://asetechsconf21.sched.com/>

Please note that viewing Sched does not constitute a conference booking. Please visit the ASE webpage to book your tickets according to your ASE membership status at: ASE Technicians Online Summer Conference | www.ase.org.uk

The “Schedule” will appear in a Simple format (bars across the page, colour-coded in accordance with the Type list below). At the top left-hand side of the page you can hover over the Schedule box to view the timetable in other formats according to your preference – click on Grid to see the timetable displayed differently, which you might prefer, or Expanded which provides a full session description. Adjacent to the Schedule box is the Speakers box, which if you click on it will enable you perform a search for a particular Speaker. Adjacent to that is an Attendees box which holds information about all Attendees who are creating profiles – this can be delegates or speakers or both. Attendees can go on to create their personal agendas for the event.

There are a number of filter options to help delegates to decide upon their personal agenda. The Sched Attendees User Guide can be found here including personalising your schedule and using Sched on a mobile phone.

Once you have clicked on the link, you will see a number of options on the right hand side of the main page

- The Search Box at the top will enable you to search by session title or presenter’s name
- Filter by venue merely sorts into the various Zoom Rooms – there are 4 Zoom Rooms for this Conference.
- Filter by type includes a selection of colour-coded audience types which represent the themes below

-  Professional Development
-  Biology
-  Chemistry
-  Physics
-  Other

If you hover over any of the coloured dots representing Type, you will see an indication of the number of events for that audience.

These can help in selecting areas of interest across your day for attending conference and creating your personal agenda. It is important to note that clicking on sessions does not provide a reservation for that session and is merely an expression of interest. The ASE does not use the Sched Reservation functionality for its events.
