

Association for Science Education

The Association for Science Education wishes to recruit a dynamic and strategic Chief Executive. This is an opportunity for an experienced leader to be at the forefront of one of the most influential organisations for science education at all levels in the UK.

We are eager to hear from you if you have:

- Ideally five years' leadership and management experience at a senior level
- A track record of leading excellent service delivery
- Experience of forging excellent relationships with partners and stakeholders
- Experience of developing and inspiring staff teams
- Experience of engaging with and motivating teams of volunteers
- Robust financial management and strategic planning skills
- Experience in risk management and development of income streams
- Effective oral and written communication skills
- A commitment to the development of Science Education
- An appetite for hybrid working and willingness to travel when required

Salary in the range of £62,000 to £72,000 to be negotiated
