

For fuller details including session synopses and room allocations, please go to our live digital timetable

Wednesday 5th January 2022

<https://aseannualconference2022shu.sched.com/>

For the most up to date and live Annual Conference 2022 information, please click on the Sched link above. To view the sessions suitable for ECTs, under Filter By type, hover over Key Stage / Audience Type and select Trainee Teachers. You can then click on each of the sessions to view the synopsis, and also to view presenters' details, or view any files or attachments relating to each session, which speakers sometimes upload after they have presented.

1310-1330		Introduction and Welcome: Sarah Longshaw, Rob Butler
1330-1430	Session A	Assessment for Learning in Science Classrooms: Classroom talk to elicit evidence related to difficulties in science: Andrea Mapplebeck	Interview Skills: Sarah Longshaw +1	Differentiation in Science through Access and Support: Rob Butler
1430-1445	Break
1445-1545	Session B	Assessment for Learning in Science Classrooms – Differentiation: Andrea Mapplebeck	Making Best Use of Resources in Science Teaching: Christine Harrison	Science Learning with 16-19 Students: Sarah Longshaw
1545-1600	Break
1600-1700	Session C	Towards a sustainable work-life balance for Early Career Teachers: Andy Chandler-Grevatt	Science to Stretch and Challenge: Alastair Gittner	SEN and support in Science: Rob Butler
1700-1730		Plenary: Sarah Longshaw, Rob Butler + presenters
1745-2030		Networking and Nibbles for all

Our Early Career Conference has been designed for Trainee Teachers, NQTs and RQTs, and anyone at the beginning of their science teaching career pathway. The afternoon will include a raffle with prizes from our exhibitors and the ASE. If you'd like to join our dedicated Early Career Conference afternoon, please book a ticket on Eventbrite. Members can pay the £40 to attend on Wednesday and use their free day for one of the other days – amazing value! The ASE Annual Conference webpage is also full of additional information – please browse what we are delighted to be offering for 2022. For queries, email conferences@ase.org.uk